

St Nicholas Church Building update: September 2019

North aisle roof – as yet we have had no response from the DAC giving us the go ahead before the winter, although in principle they have agreed to the change of material from lead to terne coated stainless steel, which will avoid further thefts.

Nevertheless, we have decided to instruct the architect to draw up appropriate plans and we will amend as necessary if further recommendations are given by the DAC. Once the specification is produced we can then ask the building company to price up the works and plan a start date. We have WC planning permission so we feel we have done all we can to be ready once the consent is received.

Regarding the chancel wall, the extensive report from the structural engineer has been sent recorded delivery to the DAC along with the other documents requested. We are awaiting a response.

We are very grateful to all the generous people who have already donated to the Building Fund. A small group of people have already made plans of fund raising events for the next year and we hope that these will not only provide further funds for our parish church but will also offer a variety of activities that the village community will enjoy.
